

The price that the market participants are willing to pay.